

THE DARTMOOR CLASSIC TIMES

BREAKING NEWS:

The Dartmoor Classic Times is delighted to announce that Science in Sport (SiS) are to be the official suppliers of energy and nutritional products for the 2012 event. Born out of passion in 1992, SiS are recognised as the world leader in sports nutrition. Each of their products has a core function to energise, hydrate, aid recovery and enhance performance. "The presence and support of SiS at next year's event is going to be a massive benefit to all those taking part in the ride and we are delighted that they are teaming up with us. It's appropriate that the world's leading brand in the sports nutrition field is now officially linking up with what is acknowledged by the majority of its participants to be the best sportive experience in the U.K." said Colin Martin, the Classic's feed stations manager.

Through the event's website and The Dartmoor Classic Times, SiS will be providing nutrition advice for riders in their build up to next summer's challenge.

ANOTHER SELL-OUT!

Despite another increase of 300 places, for the sixth year in a row the Dartmoor Classic has been a complete sell-out within one month. "With gloomy economic forecasts, we did wonder if we were making the right decision in planning to accept a 12% increase on last year's figure, but reaching capacity so far ahead of the event is proof positive that our sportive is one thing people are not prepared to cut from their budgets." said Stewart Bergman, Chairman of the "Dartmoor Classic".
